

Press Release

Released: 23 July, 2010

Christian Super highlights Ethicist appointment

Christian Super, winner of the Infinity Award by SuperRatings in March this year is focused on ensuring its investments are ethical and responsible.

“We have an Ethics committee as a vital part of our organisation and also employ an experienced ethicist as an adviser to our committee,” said CEO Peter Murphy. “As far as we know, we are the only stand-alone super fund who has made such an appointment,” he said.

Gordon Preece has taught professional ethics at a tertiary level for 20 years, including directing centres for applied ethics. His specialty is the ethics of work, professions and business. He has written or edited eleven books including “Christianity and Entrepreneurship” and “Changing Work Values”.

Gordon was also Director of the Macquarie Christian Studies Institute and Urban Seed. Presently he is the founder and Director of Ethos, based in Melbourne.

For more: <http://www.christiansuper.com.au/ethic-statements-resources/ethical-investment-policies>