Duty of Disclosure

Your duty of disclosure

Insurance cover offered through your Christian Super account are provided by Hannover Life Re of Australasia Ltd (HLRA). Before you enter into a life insurance contract with HLRA, whether on your own behalf or on behalf of another person, you have a duty to tell HLRA anything that you know, or could reasonably be expected to know, may affect HLRA's decision to insure and the terms of that insurance. This duty of disclosure continues after you have completed this statement until the cover has been issued by HLRA. The same duty applies before you extend, vary or reinstate the contract.

You do not need to tell HLRA anything that:

- reduces the risk HLRA insure you for; or
- is common knowledge; or
- HLRA know or should know as an insurer; or
- HLRA waive your duty to tell HLRA about.

If the insurance is for the life of another person and that person does not tell HLRA everything he or she should have, this may be treated as a failure by you to disclose.

If you or the person who becomes the life insured under the policy do not tell HLRA something

In exercising the following rights, HLRA may consider whether different types of cover can constitute separate contracts of life insurance. If they do, HLRA may apply the following rights separately to each type of cover.

If you or the life insured does not tell HLRA something that you or they are required to tell HLRA, and HLRA would not have insured you on the same terms if HLRA had been told, HLRA may avoid your cover within 3 years of issuing it.

If HLRA choose not to avoid your cover, HLRA may, at any time, reduce the amount for which you or the life insured have been insured. This would be worked out using a formula that takes into account the premium that would have been payable if you and the life insured had told HLRA everything you should have. However, for death cover, HLRA may only exercise this right within 3 years of issuing the cover.

If HLRA choose not to avoid the cover or reduce the amount for which you or the life insured have been insured, HLRA may, at any time vary the cover in a way that places HLRA in the same position HLRA would have been in if HLRA had been told everything HLRA should have been told. However, this right does not apply to death cover.

If the failure to tell HLRA is fraudulent, HLRA may refuse to pay a claim and treat the cover as if it never existed.

Hannover Life Re of Australasia Ltd (HLRA), collect and use your health information to assess your application for cover, to assess and manage your claim, or to confirm the information you gave us when you applied for cover or made a claim. HLRA will require your consent to release information. Each time you apply for cover or make a claim, HLRA will ask you for a fresh consent. HLRA will respect your privacy by only asking for the information that is reasonably required. HLRA will tell you each time your consent is used.

Your General Practitioner maintains consultation notes to support quality care, your wellbeing and to meet legal and professional requirements.
