Making contributions on behalf of your spouse

- 1. The amount of spouse contributions that can be made in a particular financial year is subject to the $100,000 per year (or $300,000 over 3 years) cap on non-concessional contributions.
- 2. A tax offset of up to $540 may be available for up to $3,000 of superannuation contributions made by a tax payer on behalf of a non-working or low income spouse. The spouse contributions offset cannot be claimed for contributions split from your account to your spouse's account.

The offset is available to a person where:

- the person has a spouse
- the person makes after-tax (ie. not salary sacrifice contributions on behalf of his/her spouse)
- the contributions are not tax deductible for the person contributing
- both the person contributing and the spouse are Australian residents when the contribution is made
- at the time the contribution is made, the person contributing and the spouse must not have been living separately and apart on a permanent basis.
- the spouse's total income (including assessable income, reportable fringe benefits and salary sacrifice amounts) is less than $40,000.

3. The person making the contributions:

- can be any age
- cannot be the employer of the receiving spouse
- must be an Australian resident to be able to claim a tax offset must be receiving assessable income (from any source).

4. The receiving spouse:

- if under age 67 at the time the contribution is received, is not required to have ever been gainfully employed
- if aged 67-74 when the contribution is received, must be gainfully employed for at least 40 hours in a period of not more than 30 consecutive days in that financial year
- if aged 67-74 and not working, must have met the work test in the last financial year, have had a total a total superannuation balance of less than $300,000 at the end of last financial year; and have not used the work test exemption to make contributions last financial year
- if aged 75, is not eligible and the contribution cannot be accepted
- must be an Australian resident for the contributor to be eligible to claim a tax offset.

5. The spouse of a person includes:

- another person (whether of the same sex or a different sex) with whom the person is in a relationship that is registered under a state law or territory law
- another person who, although not legally married to the person, lives with the person on a genuine domestic basis in a relationship as a couple.

6. Spouse contributions must be preserved as follows:

- if the receiving spouse has never been employed, then any benefits arising from spouse contributions are preserved until age 65
- if the receiving spouse has been employed, then benefit arising from spouse contributions are preserved until their preservation ages.

7. Contributions made for a receiving spouse cannot be refunded to the contributing tax payer and treated as follows for taxation purposes:

- non-concessional contributions (not subject to 15% contributions tax)
- tax free when withdrawn (but earnings on these amounts may be taxed).
