Total returns are calculated using the sell (exit) price, net of management fees and gross of tax as if distributions of income have been reinvested at the actual distribution reinvestment price. The actual returns received by an investor will depend on the timing, buy and exit prices of individual transactions. Return of capital and the performance of your investment in the fund are not guaranteed. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Figures showing a period of less than one year have not been adjusted to show an annual total return. Figures for periods of greater than one year are on a per annum compound basis. The current benchmark may not have been the benchmark over all periods shown in the above chart and tables. The calculation of the benchmark performance links the performance of previous benchmarks and the current benchmark over the relevant time periods.

Commentary

There has been no shortage of headlines through the quarter which induced volatility into asset prices. Concerns about rising inflation, the rapid spread of a new variant of COVID, and the escalation of geopolitical tensions as the threat of a Russian invasion of the Ukraine appeared to become more imminent. These headlines were reflected in asset prices, and the VIX (a market measure of uncertainty) exceeded 28 in late November – compared to a long run median of 17, and a post emergence covid median of 23. While uncertainty was high as supportive economic data continued and as fears of widespread global lockdowns eased – the VIX declined back below 20 and equities actually ended the quarter on a positive note and long-term yields on Australian government bonds after exceeding 2% at the end of October were basically unchanged by the end of the quarter.

The Fund returned 3.6% (Wholesale 3.8%) over the quarter, underperforming its SAA weighted benchmark, which returned 4.0%. The underperformance was driven by underperformance in the international equities portfolio. Despite this, from an absolute return perspective, the international equities portfolio contributed most of the performance, appreciating 6.3% over the 3-months. This was largely driven by the US, where the S&P 500 rose 11.3%. The tech heavy index benefited from the continued strong performance in the Information Technology sector, which comprises 23% of the MSCI World ex AU Index, and 27% of the International Shares Portfolio.
